

BARANGAY HISTORY

Time before the Japanese came to the Philippines, there lived five families in this thick forest with wild animals present. The families are trying to clear the place for purposes of crops, vegetables for their source of living. Later, they observed that the soil bears rich characteristics for crops grown until sometimes arouses the interest of others occupancy. One day, five related families strolled the place and proven the richness of the soil suitable for planting. They noted this condition assures their future living. The following day, these families transferred their residence, until finally the place comprising of ten families.

With these numbers of resident members, they decided to name their place by motion and seconded that "CAANINAPLAHAN" be the name of the place. This name was derived from "ANINAPLA" tree, which is abundant in the then forested area. Later, they elected their set of officers when "Caaninaplahan" was proclaimed as a barangay by virtue of R.A.3590.

Caaninaplahan is located 12 kilometers northeast of the town of Talavera. The patron saint of Caaninaplahan is Sta. Lucia whose feast day is every 13th of December.
